Pros

EBSCO Discovery Service	OCLC WorldCat Discovery
● many students already have EBSCO accounts & they can be used with other databases; already familiar with the interface ● EBSCO's smartlinks and custom links; OpenURL resolver only used as a last resort ● research starters - encyclopedia entries on common topics ● widgets & apps provide greater potential to promote other library resources & services (ex. LibGuides, Digital Archives, Institutional Repository) ● profiles & discipline-limited searching allow for the creation of varied Discovery experiences - pulls results not only from journal databases but also from the appropriate LC classification areas in our catalog ● citation match - paste a full citation into search and receive exact results ● Strong technical support ● New "did you mean" feature more closely resembles Google's ● "Apply equivalent subjects" search option pulls in controlled vocabulary (e.g., MeSH terms) from other databases and maps to that.	● low cost ● vendor neutral ● simpler admin interface ● integration with OCLC License Manager ● Discipline specific searching is available

& Cons

EBSCO Discovery Service	OCLC WorldCat Discovery
● high cost ● admin interface is confusing & less user-friendly ● may favor EBSCO content	● one more account for students to keep up with ● OpenURL link resolver can be less reliable

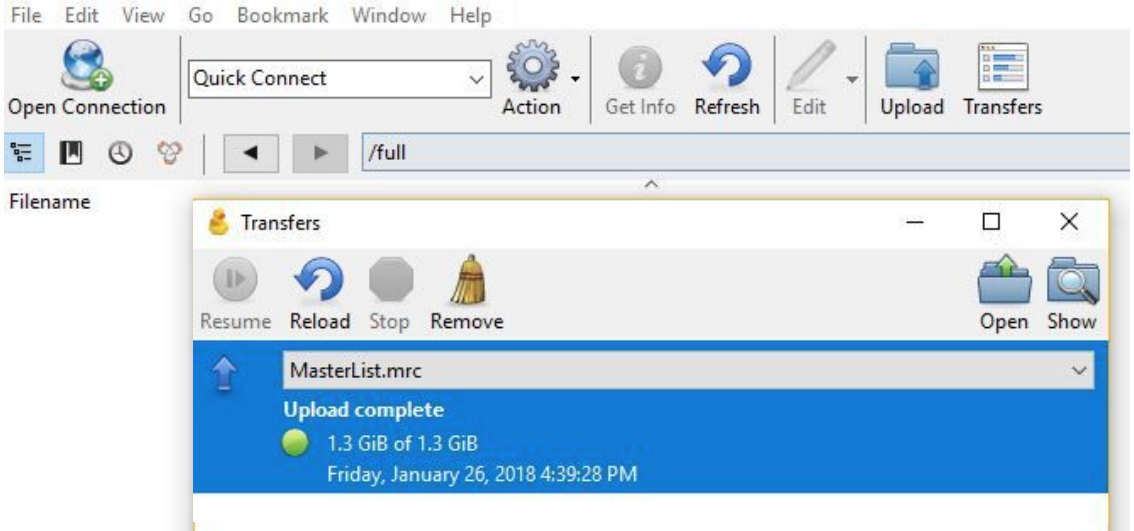
Catalog Data Import

- Primary method for receiving data is through File Transfer Protocol (FTP)
- Send large files directly to a specific account
- You may export MARC update files to the EDS FTP site as often as daily.



Catalog Data Import via Web Transfer Client

- Starting with September 2017
- Helpful for those institutions which are unable to use the standard FTP method of transferring data
- The Web Transfer Client and the FTP client can be used interchangeably
  - Click on the full folder to upload a new full data set to the FTP site
  - Click on the update folder to send an update to the FTP site
